To Our Mercantile and River
Friends.

We desire to call public attention to the fact that we have recently reduced the job prices of the Democrat, formerly the largest paper printed in the city, and are now better prepared than heretofore to do every manner of work. Our types are new and of the latest pattern. Our presses are rapid and of the most approved style. Our workmen are careful, skillful and inviolable.

The Burial of George N. Smith.

The remains of George N. Smith reached our city yesterday, and his funeral will take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock from the family residence of Mrs. Marshall Key, on the south side of Jefferson, between First and Second streets.

The date of this young man's death is sad. He had been engaged in the establishment of Wilson, Peter & Co., by the late John Smith, our city. Sometime in October he left Louisville on a business tour through the South, and when near Clarksville, Arkansas, on the 5th of November, was robbed and finally shot, from the wounds of which he survived but a few hours.

The story of this outrageous murder is about as follows: Mr. Bullitt was riding along the public highway, and when within two miles of Clarksville, he was met by two men, who asked him if he had seen a wagon described in the following way: Sometime after this, feeling weary of the ride, he got down from the horse and was walking up the hill, when he suddenly saw a man with a revolver pointed at his head.

He was then robbed of about $200 in money and a gold watch and his horse, but this it seems from him not to have been the end of his troubles. He was then taken to some distance from the road. He begged them that they should get everything of value he had about him, to let him go, but that it would do them no good to kill him; but they were not to be so easily appeased. Their response to him was that "dead men tell no tales."

On their hurried him into the thicket and commenced firing. He was shot in several places, and finally was left for dead, he survived and succeeded in crawling a mile or more to a house, where he sought and obtained medical aid.

The doctor having arrived, told young Bullitt promptly that his recovery was impossible. He suffered some hours, however, and, although in great pain, retained perfect consciousness to the last. He described minutely the assassins and all that occurred, and from that description one of them has been arrested and is now in jail at Little Rock.

The many friends of this young man and his numerous relatives are called upon to pay the last rites to his memory to-day.

The Branch Road to Cincinnati. A paragraph in yesterday's Courier says that enough money has been received, the board of directors of the Louisville and Frankfort Railroad Company have determined to build the branch road from Eminence to Cincinnati.

An Important Improvement. Many of the buildings to be erected in the Old Gallop Horse Site—about two acres, and the Gallop House was destroyed by fire, and since that time the valuable property left vacant by that destruction has been left unimproved. We are glad to learn that arrangements are being made for the erection of a row of fine, massive, stone-fronted buildings on that site, which, when finished, will be the finest row of business buildings ever erected in the West.

The Lockup Value. The recent disaster upon our Western writers led to the inquiry, can any satisfactory be invented, which will prevent errors from running down from the top of the page to the bottom of the page, and vice versa? The important fact of the Louisville Safety Company, have constructed two safety-valves, the "American" for high pressure, and the "Excelsior" for low pressure engines. These valves will be sold at the foundry of the Louisville Safety Company, and will be sold at the foundry of the Louisville Safety Company, and will be sold at the foundry of the Louisville Safety Company.

Good Books are Cheap. The Mind, and Jewels, judiciously selected, can be obtained in abundance; the latter are gratuitously distributed to persons at the close of the sale of the Commodore John B. Smith, on the corner of Main and Second streets. Yesterday Mr. Henry Carter, who purchased a Catholic prayer book, and was the recipient of an egg set, valued at $5. Beautiful gift-givers away daily, of which watches, tea caddies, and cake baskets, by the dozen, and objects of desire, form a part. All books are offered at cost until January 10, 1887.

AWAITING TRIAL.—John Easton, alias Red John, has often figured before our courts, and he enjoys the honor of being one of the last thieves in the country, and has served twelve years of State prison. John was caught lurking around the porkhouse yesterday, under rather suspicious circumstances, which caused him to be arrested by officers Tiller and Bligh. John was taken to the City Jail, where he is now confined, and will be tried to-day, as a suspected felon.

REMAINED TO JAIL.—Thomas Smock, of Marion county, Ky., against whom a fine of $12.00 was assessed at the last term of the United States Court, for violation of the Internal Revenue Law, was re-arrested on the 11th of December, appeared before the United States Court yesterday and was remanded to jail until the fine be paid.

Mr. Sedgwick, the clever and efficient mail agent, on the N. & E. R. R., has our thanks for favors.

The Case of Miss Virginia Penny.

She is Fined for Assault—The Jury Return a Verdict of Guilty.

In the City Court of Louisville, questions often arise which are very interesting to the public, but we do not remember to have seen before that tribunal which has handled more interesting than that of the Commonwealth against Miss Virginia Penny, indicted for assaulting a little boy named Adam Hagg. The case, which will be tried to-day, is a very interesting one, and we will state that Miss Penny was one of the teachers in the Third-grade public school, and that Adam Hagg, the child charged to have been assaulted, was one of her pupils.
